

Better Said Than Done is committed to fostering a respectful environment for all. Our mission is to educate and provide opportunities for performance, discussion, and community building through educational workshops and classes in the art of storytelling, as well as the production of storytelling performances and festivals. We support the artistic development of storytellers, including community members who are new to the art form and underrepresented voices. In carrying out this mission, we are dedicated to ensuring that access and opportunity are available to all.

Better Said Than Done complies with all applicable civil rights statutes and regulations prohibiting discrimination and does not discriminate in the administration of its programs, services, or activities on the basis of race, color, religion (creed), gender, gender expression, age, national origin (ancestry), disability, marital status, parental/family status, sexual orientation, military status, or any other characteristic protected by applicable federal, state, or local laws.

This policy applies to all aspects of the organization's operations, including but not limited to program participation, hiring, volunteer engagement, partnerships, and community outreach. Better Said Than Done is committed to treating all individuals with dignity and respect and to actively addressing barriers to participation.

Better Said Than Done will take appropriate steps to provide reasonable accommodations and to ensure meaningful access to its programs and services for individuals with disabilities and those with limited English proficiency, in accordance with applicable law.

Any individual who believes they have been subjected to discrimination is encouraged to report their concerns so they may be promptly and fairly addressed.
